The Income Intake

The same starting picture every Revenue OS client completes before session one, in a lighter form.

Before you start.

You didn't start this to guess.

You started because you were good at something, and you believed that should be enough to build a real life around.

Somewhere along the way, the guessing crept in anyway. What to charge. What to track. Who to trust with your time.

I have sat across from enough professionals to know the gap is rarely talent. It is structure.

This is the same starting picture I ask every client for before we begin. Fill it in honestly. Let it show you something true.

— Chibuzor Mordi, The Income Architect

SECTION 1

Your revenue picture.

Numbers, not descriptions. What you earn, how you earn it, and how consistent it actually is.

What you earned, on average, over the last three months

How many different sources that income came from

How consistent is it, month to month, honestly

SECTION 2

Your real costs.

Every expense tied to actually delivering your work, not just running your life.

What it costs you, in tools, time, or people, to deliver your core offer

SECTION 3

Your offer, plainly.

What you sell, who you sell it to, and what you currently charge for it.

What you sell, in one sentence

Who you sell it to

What you currently charge for it

SECTION 4

Your goal.

What does predictable income look like for you specifically, in numbers, by when?

Your answer

WHAT NOW

You now have the same starting picture I ask every client for.

The next step is turning this into an actual plan, priced properly, structured around what you just wrote down.

This is exactly what
The Income Blueprint is built to fix.

One session. A written plan. Your next step, mapped clearly.
